Congress Indignant About Mysterious Delay of Works-Relief

WASHINGTON—It is fortunate for the Administration that Congress is so frazzled and weary.

Were it not that the members are desperately eager to wind up their long labors, there would almost certainly be an investigation into the mysterious delay in starting the $4,000,000,000 Work-Relief program. The extraordinary inactivity has aroused much indignation up and down Capitol Hill.

It is almost six months to the day since the President first advanced the idea of the job-creating plan. Nearly three months have passed since it has been law. Yet the $3,500,000 unemployed who were to be given work are still on the dole. Furthermore, it now looks as if they will remain there for some time to come.

Only a few days ago the President allotted $115,000,000 of Work-Relief money to take care of FERA requirements for July. This makes a total of $545,000,000 obtained by FERA from the Work-Relief fund for dole purposes.

The failure to get the work plan in motion has given rise to bitter charges of playing politics. Republicans are asserting that the Administration is deliberately stalling the program so its effect will be felt in the Democratic campaign next year.

On the surface there is some circumstantial evidence to give color to this accusation:

Head of the Work-Relief program is Harry Hopkins. Given a free rein, in 1933, this dynamo Administrator put 4,000,000 men to work in 30 days.

Great Calamity

Even when he is annoyed, grandiloquent Senator J. "Ham" Lewis of Illinois is rhetorical.

In a noisy mood the other day, the Senate paid no heed to Vice-President Jack Garner's demands for quiet. Whereupon up rose "Ham" and quoth admonishingly as follows:

"Mr. President, I deplore to say that some day a very great calamity shall come upon the Senate. It will be reported to the world at large, it will be remarked far and wide that Senators listened to a Senator making a speech."

No Chances

The Government is taking no chances with its vast gold hoard or more than nine billion dollars. Other safeguards are contemplated in addition to the vault at Fort Knox, Ky.

In a secret session of the House Appropriations Committee, W. C. Cram, Jr., technical adviser to Secretary Morgenthau, requested $200,000 to provide additional precautions for the four mints where the bulk of the treasure is now stored. The mints are in New York, Philadelphia, Denver and San Francisco.

"Why is such a large sum needed?" demanded Chairman Buchanan.

"During the last few years," explained Cram, "the process of attacking banks has been greatly improved. There are organized groups of men working with high technical knowledge. In some instances the burglarizing of vaults has been done so expertly that they have come right up under the vault floor."

Pressed by the skeptical members for a detailed statement of the use of the proposed appropriation, Cram listed the following:

An electric generator for each of the four mints, for use in the event the outside current is cut off.

SHERRILL FOR SLASH IN TAX BOARD COSTS

Cites Saving of Nearly Million Dollars in Reorganization Plan

SINGLE CHIEF URGED

"Better Co-Ordination" Possible, Board Says

COLUMBUS, July 5.—The Ohio Government survey through Col. C. O. Sherrill, general chairman, today presented to Gov. Martin L. Davey recommendations regarding the Tax Commission which if followed out would net the state a savings of $931,229.

Instead of the 1935 appropriations of $2,341,299, the survey points out that $1,608,599 "is sufficient to carry on annual operations." Additional savings could be obtained by reorganization and "better co-ordination" to bring about further savings of $198,599 which would bring the total operating cost of the Tax Commission to $1,410,000 per year.

Cut Allowance

Col. Sherrill also recommended in his report to the Governor that licensed gasoline dealers be permitted only one per cent deduction for evaporation instead of the present deductible allowance of three per cent. If this change were made, the survey estimates the state could obtain added income of $800,000 from the motor vehicle fuel tax. In 27 states, at the present time, only one per cent is allowed, Col. Sherrill stated.

The survey also recommends in order to carry out the reorganization on an economical basis, the creation by legislative act of a "position of executive tax administrator" to have complete, direct, and full authority over all employees and to conduct a uniform administration. In this way, a separation of the administrative and quasi-legislative and judicial functions of the commission could be effected. The Commission, under the recommendation, would appoint the administrator from an eligible civil service list.

Lower Travel Cost

Reduction in travel expense is urged in the report, and "field men should be resided in the territory in which they work to conserve time and expense."

COLUMBUS, July 5.—Announcement of the Sherrill government survey committee's recommendations for reorganizing the state tax commission stirred Carlton S. Dargusch, young vice chairman of the commission, to express doubt "that politics can ever be eliminated from Ohio government" today.

"I have not read the committee's report on the tax commission," said Dargusch, "but if the good Doctor (Sherrill) has found a way to rid government of politics, he has found the panacea for which mankind has been searching."

Dargusch pointed out the tax commission has already eliminated "nearly 150 jobs," in an effort to economize.

THIRD CONCERT TO START AT 8

With weather permitting, the third of the band concert series will be conducted at 8 o'clock this evening in front of the courthouse.

The concert was originally scheduled for Wednesday evening but the downpour interfered.

A concert of 10 numbers in addition to the two patriotic selections, America and the Star Spangled Banner, will be presented.

Woodmen to Gather Here Next Tuesday

Modern Woodmen of America will hold a county camp adoption next Tuesday in the Woodman hall over the First National bank.

The Ohio Camp team of Columbus will put on the work.

There will be an exhibition drill on the streets at 7:30 p. m.

'CRACKERS BLAST TOP OFF MACHINE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—While driving his car with a pile of firecrackers in his lap Joseph Genocchio flicked a spark from a cigarette into the explosives, which blew the top off his sedan.

Doctors today feared Genocchio, who suffered groin injuries, will be crippled for life.

Edward Loretz, Genocchio's companion, also was seriously burned.

SEVERAL HURT BY 'CRACKERS

Amanda Youth Had Badly Burned Hand and Arm; Many Are Treated.

Circleville physicians treated a number of persons for burns and other injuries suffered through unwise use of fireworks, Wednesday and Thursday. Some of the persons were discharged without their names or addresses being learned.

Some of those injured were:

John McKain, of Amanda, who suffered a badly burned right hand and arm, the result of holding a Roman candle on the wrong end.

Guy Young of Rt. 5, who was treated in Berger hospital for burns on his right arm.

Doris Hulse, 10, of Jackson-twp., burned finger.

Howard Rogers and Carl Purcell, both of this city, burns on legs by firecrackers thrown by others.

A youth named Reid of Abernethy-ave, a burned mouth.

TARLTON CHURCH TO RECEIVE $1,000

The Tarlton Methodist church and the Methodist Children's home at Worthington are each named to receive $1,000 from her estate under the will of the late Olive Thomas of near Tarlton.

The will was probated in Fairfield county.

Use of her home in Tarlton and all household goods is given for her lifetime to Mary A. Roby.

The will direct Fred Griner, executor, to sell 74 acres of land one mile southeast of Stoutsville and 190 acres one mile north of Tarlton.

Income from the $1,000 left the church is to be used in support of the gospel, such as minister's salary.

A sister, Nellie Rowe, is left $3,000 and the remainder of the property is divided in equal shares between Mazie Little, Doyle and Dell Peters of Ashville, R. F. D., and seven others, non-residents of this county.

FOUR DENY GUILT IN DETROIT CASE

DETROIT, July 3.—Arraigned on warrants charging first degree murder in the death of Howard Carter Dickinson, noted New York attorney, William Schweitzer and his three girl companions stood mute today and pleas of not guilty were entered for them.

In a surprise move, Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea placed a first degree murder charge against Jean Miller, 24, whose story led to confessions by Schweitzer and the other two girls, Florence and Loretta Jackson.

SALES, EXCISE TAX MONEY IS RECEIVED

The county and its various subdivisions today had received checks from sales tax and excise tax.

The amounts were: county from sales tax, $559.41; corporations, $232.24 including $188.68 to Circleville; townships, $184.58.

The county received $1,215.22 from the excise tax distribution for relief but cannot spend it without authorization.

CLOTHING LOST

C. E. Sharp of 1140 Hubbard-st., Detroit, reported to police Thursday that a suit case filled with a woman's clothing had been lost from his car between this city and Columbus.

Cop Has Final Say

Lon Compton

Dr. H. Earl Collins, president of Tarkio, Mo., college, has announced he has made settlement of a $25,000 slander suit brought by Officer Lon Compton, above, of West Jefferson, O. Late for a radio broadcast, Dr. Collins was alleged to have declared over the air that his tardiness was due to being stopped by a motor cop "very much under the influence of liquor." Compton denied that he had been drinking, and charged the college official with malice to injure him in his profession.

GRAIN MART FALLS TODAY

Offer For Wheat Drops Five Cents on Local Market; Other Prices Down.

The grain market took a "nose-dive" here today with one milling company lowering its offer for wheat from 76 cents offered on Wednesday to 71 cents.

Prices offered for yellow corn went from 81 cents to 78 cents and on white corn from 84 cents to 81 cents.

The Chicago board of trade announced a decided drop in prices.

MISS ROONEY HIRED TO TEACHING STAFF

Miss Margaret Rooney, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Rooney, E. Union-st., has been employed as a teacher in the city system succeeding Miss Mary Seal who resigned to join the high school faculty of the Monroe-twp. school.

Miss Seal has been teaching the third grade at High-st. building.

Miss Rooney's employment again fills the teaching roster for the year.

Miss Dunlap Loses Clothes, Buys New; Then Bags Are Found

Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, daughter of David Dunlap, W. Franklin-st., who sailed this week for a tour of Europe, had some bad luck, then some good luck.

Preparing to leave on her tour, Miss Dunlap discovered that her baggage was gone. Search of the wharf failed to unearth her clothes so the belief was that they were stolen.

She was forced to purchase a new wardrobe before sailing.

After the steamer started on its journey, Miss Dunlap was notified that the clothing had been found and would be sent her on another ship. It will arrive in Venice on July 19.

Hospital News

Harley B. Colwell is reported as well as can be expected after a serious operation in Cleveland clinic hospital Tuesday. He will remain in the hospital several weeks.

Mrs. Tom Hedges and baby son were taken from Berger hospital, Friday, to the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Hedges, N. Pickaway-st., in the Rinehart invalid car.

Mrs. Agnes Mavis, E. Mount-st. underwent a minor operation in Berger hospital, Friday morning.

WEST, OTHERS TO FACE QUIZ IN 'LOBBYING'

Hearing Resulting from Wheeler-Rayburn Fight to Open Monday

INQUIRE THREATS

Power Company Heads Also to be Heard

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Three White House aides in the bitter holding company "death sentence" battle may be summoned before the house rules committee to testify in its double-barreled investigation of lobbies.

They are Thomas Corcoran and Benjamin V. Cohen, New Deal lawyers who wrote the Wheeler-Rayburn utilities bill, and Charles West, former Ohio congressman and now congressional liaison officer for President Roosevelt.

May Delay Hearing

Committee members today were making preliminary plans for a meeting on Monday, but the actual investigation may be delayed until the house votes an appropriation and authorizes the committee to administer oaths.

Corcoran, RFC attorney and protégé of Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard, is likely to be the first administration aide called. He was charged by Rep. Brewster (R) of Maine, with having threatened to halt the Passamaquoddy power project in Maine if Brewster opposed the "death sentence"—the provision calling for the dissolution of "unnecessary" utilities holding companies by 1940.

In addition Emil Hurja, assistant chairman of the Democratic national committee, may be called as a witness.

Republican members are preparing a request that the entire quartet be brought before the committee. All were active around the house during the holding company fight.

Call Power Heads

Heads of the biggest power companies in the nation are slated to be called to explain their admitted big and intensive propaganda campaign against the bill, but the "White House lobby" quiz over-shadowed all other proposals because of its possible effect on the New Deal.

MANY AT ASHVILLE FOR ANNUAL FETE

The heavy rains cut down Ashville's usually great Fourth of July crowd but the enthusiasm of the day always creates was not missing.

A fine parade was held in the morning, despite the rain, and the large crowd was present throughout the afternoon and evening.

SCREEN SAVES AUTO, RIDERS FROM RIVER

Paul Clifton of R. F. D. 2 and the parties riding in his automobile last Thursday can thank their lucky stars there was a wire screen stretched across the embankment just west of the Scioto river bridge west of South Bloomfield.

Clifton's Essex went off the road and but for the screen would have fallen into 18 feet of water.

WIRE CAUSES CALL

The fire department was called Wednesday evening to Mingo and Franklin-sts where a high tension wire was making sparks in a tree. There was no damage.

RESISTED, JAILED

H. F. and Charles Palm of Groveport were sent to the county jail Friday in default of bond after hearings in Ashville for resisting any officer. They were bound over to the grand jury under $100 and $500 each.

Onno Wilson, Dayton, came to town Friday to visit a friend in the county jail. Wilson was intoxicated so Sheriff Charles Radcliff locked him up to make the visit longer.

Many Counties Hit by Torrent

Damage to Reach Thousands Although No Lives are Reported Lost; Crops, Homes, Highways and Bridges Suffer in Sudden Storm.

By International News Service

Thousands of dollars damage to crops, homes, highways and bridges in Ohio was left today in the wake of torrential rains of the last 48 hours.

That no deaths were reported was considered remarkable in view of the suddenness with which flood waters hit many sections of the state, particularly south-eastern Ohio.

Average rainfall in the state for the last 48 hours was 1.46 inches, the U. S. weather bureau at Columbus, stated.

Bridges Washed Out

Bridges were washed out by the dozen, interrupting rail and highway traffic.

Experiencing a cloudburst, Belmont-co, on the West Virginia border, reported two men and a girl narrowly escaped when a steel bridge leading from the National Road to Boydsville collapsed, the flood waters having washed out a concrete pier.

Dozens of houses and a school building were carried off their foundations at Cfabapple, Belmont-co.

Water entered the Virginia Hill mine at Lafferty delaying resumption of work.

OIL COMPANY IS DEFENDANT

Mrs. May Rhymer of Stoutsville Sues for $25,000; Bert Rose Truck Driver.

Suit for $25,000 for the death of her husband last July 18 when his automobile was struck by the Standard Oil Co. truck driven by Bert Rose, S. Court-st., was filed in Fairfield-co common pleas court Wednesday by Mrs. May Rhymer of Stoutsville. She is administrator of the estate of George Edward Rhymer, the accident victim.

The deceased was driving toward this city from Stoutsville when the truck and automobile collided. Mrs. Rhymer alleges negligence on the part of Rose claiming that he was traveling faster than 45 miles an hour and on the wrong side of the road.

WRITES SATURDAY FOR BYERS CHILD

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the United Brethren church, Rev. T. C. Harper officiating, for Robert Lewis Byers, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Byers, 414 E. Mount-st., who died Wednesday evening. The child had been ill 13 weeks.

Interment will be in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

Surviving besides the parents are two brothers, Edward and William, at home.

2 ESCAPED YOUTHS HUNTED IN COUNTY

LANCASTER, July 5.—Guards of the Boys' reformatory here rushed to Tarlton, southwest of here, today after two escaped inmates were reported seen there.

Officials nipped another escape plot in the bud when they rounded up three youths after the trio made their get-away from the hospital kitchen. They cut ignition wires on guard cars but were captured in weeds near the institution.

All except two of the six that fled from the reformatory last Monday have been captured and officials today believed the pair reported seen near Tarlton will be rounded up later today.

6 DIE IN PLANE

BERLIN, July 5.—Six persons were killed today when an airplane owned by the Siemens Electrical company crashed on the roof of a house at Britz near Tempelhof air field during a test flight.

In addition to the six deaths, which were announced officially, it was unofficially reported two more were killed in the house, which caught fire as the big plane crashed into it.

The fire extended rapidly to neighboring houses, and firemen rescued residents with ladders. Several leaped out of windows.

Marriage Licenses

Chester Boyd, 43, 756 Siebert-st., Columbus, maintenance, and Natalia Warden, Circleville.

John F. Bougher, 58, Circleville Rt. 5, farmer, and Ida B. Woolver, Williamsport Rt. 1.

STORMS HURT COUNTY CROPS; RAIN 5 INCHES

Wheat Carried to Other Fields by Rain; Route 22 Covered

PICNICS POSTPONED

Much Wayne-twp Land Covered by Flood Water

A number of Pickaway-co wheat and corn farmers today were trying to estimate damage done to their crops Wednesday evening and early Thursday when the heaviest rain storm in many months struck the county.

Several wheat crops were reduced about 50 per cent when the torrent swept shocked wheat clear across roads and fences and into adjoining fields.

Route 22 Covered

The county's numerous streams overran their banks and Route 22 at the Seven Oaks farm was inundated for a while Wednesday evening. The Scioto river was up

NOT DAM'S FAULT

County Surveyor J. Howard Sweetman stated to The Herald today that after careful consideration of all angles of the flood situation west of town, it was his opinion that the canal dam was not a contributing factor.

"The heavy rainfall, estimated at five and one-half inches, together with the inadequacy of culverts to carry off so much water, was entirely responsible for flooding the farm lands," said Mr. Sweetman. "The canal dam was not a contributing cause."

today, Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather man, reporting it nearing the 8-foot stage.

From 4 p. m. Wednesday to 11 a. m. Thursday Dr. Clarke's weather gauge showed exactly five inches of rain. Two inches fell in the first big rain Wednesday afternoon, 1.7 more was recorded in the rain early Thursday, and 1.3 was recorded in the one later in the morning. Rain since then has been intermittent and not near so heavy as the others.

Damage to growing crops on land adjacent to what is known as the Stevenson ditch, west of town, is estimated at several thousand dollars. Rain in that particular territory continued for approximately four hours, and ditches, culverts and small bridges were inadequate to take care of the resultant flow of water in low places. Water ran over State Highway 104 to a depth of four feet at a point approximately a quarter of a mile north of the intersection with Route 22. The road was temporarily closed to traffic.

Corn Under Water

Many acres of corn on the Hulse Hays property were under water and seriously damaged, Carl Cross, tenant on the Watt farm, lost 25 acres of shocked wheat, the bundles being washed down stream. Lee Bricker, another tenant on the Watt farm, removed 125 chickens from a brooder house when he saw the water rising in the drainage ditch, and just a few moments later the brooder house was washed away. Glenn Speakman's wheat crop was seriously

FILE INVENTORIES IN TWO ESTATES

Inventories of two estates were on file in probate court today. They were the estates of Sarah Hartinger, Williamsport, its value being placed at $1,000 with W. D. Heiskell, C. E. Hill and H. W. Campbell as appraisers, and James H. Hampshire, this city, being valued at $2,936.49 with O. S. Howard, J. W. Walters and F. E. Collier appraisers.

Mary Kahle of 204 E. Lane-ave, Columbus, has filed a foreclosure action in common pleas court against Henry J. and Caroline Brungs of the Masonic hotel, Springfield, for $934.00 with interest.

Power Company Heads
Also to be Heard

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Three White House aides in the bitter holding company "death sentence" battle may be summoned before the house rules committee to testify in its double-barreled investigation of lobbies.

They are Thomas Corcoran and Benjamin V. Cohen, New Deal lawyers who wrote the Wheeler-Rayburn utilities bill, and Charles West, former Ohio congressman and now congressional liaison officer for President Roosevelt.

May Delay Hearing

Committee members today were making preliminary plans for a meeting on Monday, but the actual investigation may be delayed until the house votes an appropriation and authorizes the committee to administer oaths.

Corcoran, RFC attorney and protégé of Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard, is likely to be the first administration aide called. He was charged by Rep. Brewster (R) of Maine, with having threatened to halt the Passamaquoddy power project in Maine if Brewster opposed the "death sentence"—the provision calling for the dissolution of "unnecessary" utilities holding companies by 1940.

In addition Emil Hurja, assistant chairman of the Democratic national committee, may be called as a witness.

Republican members are preparing a request that the entire quartet be brought before the committee. All were active around the house during the holding company fight.

Call Power Heads

Heads of the biggest power companies in the nation are slated to be called to explain their admitted big and intensive propaganda campaign against the bill, but the "White House lobby" quiz over-shadowed all other proposals because of its possible effect on the New Deal.

MANY AT ASHVILLE FOR ANNUAL FETE

The heavy rains cut down Ashville's usually great Fourth of July crowd but the enthusiasm the day always creates was not missing.

A fine parade was held in the morning, despite the rain, and the large crowd was present throughout the afternoon and evening.

SCREEN SAVES AUTO, RIDERS FROM RIVER

Paul Clifton of R. F. D. 2 and the parties riding in his automobile Thursday can thank their lucky stars there was a wire screen stretched across the embankment just west of the Scioto river bridge west of South Bloomfield.

Clifton's Essex went off the road and but for the screen would have fallen into 18 feet of water.

WIRE CAUSES CALL

The fire department was called Wednesday evening to Mingo and Franklin-sts where a high tension wire was making sparks in a tree. There was no damage.

RESISTED, JAILED

H. F. and Charles Palm of Groveport were sent to the county jail Friday in default of bond after hearings in Ashville for resisting an officer. They were bound over to the grand jury under $100 and $500 each.

Onno Wilson, Dayton, came to town Friday to visit a friend in the county jail. Wilson was intoxicated so Sheriff Charles Radcliff locked him up to make the visit longer.

Many Counties Hit by Torrent

Damage to Reach Thousands Although No Lives are Reported Lost; Crops, Homes, Highways and Bridges Suffer in Sudden Storm.

By International News Service
Thousands of dollars damage to crops, homes, highways and bridges in Ohio was left today in the wake of torrential rains of the last 48 hours.

That no deaths were reported was considered remarkable in view of the suddenness with which flood waters hit many sections of the state, particularly southeastern Ohio.

Average rainfall in the state for the last 48 hours was 1.46 inches, the U. S. weather bureau at Columbus, stated.

Bridges Washed Out
Bridges were washed out by the dozen, interrupting rail and highway traffic.

Experiencing a cloudburst, Belmont-co, on the West Virginia border, reported two men and a girl narrowly escaped when a steel bridge leading from the National Road to Boydsville collapsed, the flood waters having washed out a concrete pier.

Dozens of houses and a school building were carried off their foundations at Catabapple, Belmont-co.

Water entered the Virginia Hill mine at Lafferty delaying resumption of work.

OIL COMPANY IS DEFENDANT

Mrs. May Rhymer of Stoutsville
Sues for $25,000; Bert
Rose Truck Driver.

Suit for $25,000 for the death of her husband last July 18 when his automobile was struck by the Standard Oil Co. truck driven by Bert Rose, St. Clair-st, was filed in Fairfield-co common pleas court Wednesday by Mrs. May Rhymer of Stoutsville. She is administrator of the estate of George Edward Rhymer, the accident victim.

The deceased was driving toward this city from Stoutsville when the truck and automobile collided. Mrs. Rhymer alleges negligence on the part of Rose claiming that he was traveling faster than 45 miles an hour and on the wrong side of the road.

MITES SATURDAY FOR BYERS CHILD

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the United Brethren church, Rev. T. C. Harper officiating, for Robert Lewis Byers, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Byers, 414 E. Mound-st, who died Wednesday evening. The child had been ill 13 weeks.

Interment will be in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

Surviving besides the parents are two brothers, Edward and William, at home.

2 ESCAPED YOUTHS HUNTED IN COUNTY

LANCASTER, July 5.—Guards of the Boys' reformatory here rushed to Tarlton, southwest of here, today after two escaped inmates were reported seen there.

Officials nipped another escape plot in the bud when they rounded up three youths after the trio made their get-away from the hospital kitchen. They cut ignition wires on guard cars but were captured in weeds near the institution.

All except two of the six that fled from the reformatory last Monday have been captured and officials today believed the pair reported seen near Tarlton will be rounded up later today.

6 DIE IN PLANE

BERLIN, July 5.—Six persons were killed today when an airplane owned by the Siemens Electric company crashed on the roof of a house at Britz near Tempelhof air field during a test flight.

In addition to the six deaths, which were announced officially, it was unofficially reported two more were killed in the house, which caught fire as the big plane crashed into it.

The fire extended rapidly to neighboring houses, and firemen rescued residents with ladders. Several leaped out of windows.

Much Wayne-twp Land
Covered by Flood Water

A number of Pickaway-co wheat and corn farmers today were trying to estimate damage done to their crops Wednesday evening and early Thursday when the heaviest rain storm in many months struck the county.

Several wheat crops were reduced about 50 per cent when the torrent swept shocked wheat clear across roads and fences and into adjoining fields.

Route 22 Covered

The county's numerous streams overran their banks and Route 22 at the Seven Oaks farm was inundated for a while Wednesday evening. The Scioto river was up

NOT DAM'S FAULT

County Surveyor J. Howard Sweetman stated to The Herald today that after careful consideration of all angles of the flood situation west of town, it was his opinion that the canal dam was not a contributing factor.

"The heavy rainfall, estimated at five and one-half inches, together with the inadequacy of culverts to carry off so much water, was entirely responsible for flooding the farm lands," said Mr. Sweetman. "The canal dam was not a contributing cause."

today, Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather man, reporting it nearing the 8-foot stage.

From 4 p. m. Wednesday to 11 a. m. Thursday Dr. Clarke's weather gauge showed exactly five inches of rain. Two inches fell in the first big rain Wednesday afternoon, 1.7 more was recorded in the rain early Thursday, and 1.3 was recorded in the one later in the morning. Rain since then has been intermittent and not near so heavy as the others.

Damage to growing crops on land adjacent to what is known as the Stevenson ditch, west of town, is estimated at several thousand dollars. Rain in that particular territory continued for approximately four hours, and ditches, culverts and small bridges were inadequate to take care of the resultant flow of water in low places. Water ran over State Highway 104 to a depth of four feet at a point approximately a quarter of a mile north of the intersection with Route 22. The road was temporarily closed to traffic.

Corn Under Water

Many acres of corn on the Hulse Hays property were under water and seriously damaged, Carl Cross, tenant on the Watt farm, lost 25 acres of shocked wheat, the bundles being washed down stream. Lee Bricker, another tenant on the Watt farm, removed 125 chickens from a brooder house when he saw the water rising in the drainage ditch, and just a few moments later the brooder house was washed away. Glenn Speakman's wheat crop was seriously

SEEK JURY TO TRY ABDUCTOR'S WIFE

TACOMA, Wash., July 5.—Selection of a jury from a panel of 62 men and women was to begin today as the trial of Margaret Waley, 19, on charges of complicity in the kidnapping of George Weyerhaeuser, got under way.

Federal Judge Edward E. Cushman, 69, veteran Tacoma jurist, presides over the trial. Testimony will begin Tuesday. Defense counsel indicated the defendant's husband, Harmon Waley, 24, beginning a 45-year sentence in McNeil Island penitentiary on the kidnapping charge, will be their only witness.

Names of government witnesses subpoenaed Tuesday have not been disclosed.

BOY, GIRL SAVE TWO FROM FLOOD WATERS

LONDON, July 5.—Despite the efforts of a hero and heroine to hide their acts of heroism, the details of brilliant attempts by a West Jefferson boy and girl who executed a double life saving came to light today.

Leo Smith, 14-year old Boy Scout, jumped from a high bridge here yesterday to save Norman Campbell, 10, who was going down for the second time in the swollen waters of a creek near here.

Another 10-year-old girl, Wilma Pfeil, was saved in the almost identical spot by Dorothy Byerly, 16, who jumped into the murky waters and brought the distressed girl to shore.

Mary Kahle of 204 E. Lane-ave, Columbus, has filed a foreclosure action in common pleas court against Henry J. and Caroline Brungs of the Masonic home, Springfield, for $936.00 with interest.

CLAIMS WIFE NOT INVOLVED

To Be Returned to Detroit Today in Lillian Gallaher Attack-Murder.

NEW YORK, July 5—Hysterically anxious to "atone" for his "crime" slaying of 11-year-old Lillian Gallaher, Merton W. Goodrich, the "mad musician," was to be returned to Detroit today probably to spend the rest of his life behind prison or asylum bars.

The 27-year-old trap drummer's red-haired wife tearfully prepared to go back to Detroit with her husband to face a charge of complicity in the slaying of the little girl while New York detectives sought a diary in which Goodrich is said to have recorded psychopathic attacks on at least five other children.

"Wife Innocent"
Distracted almost to the point of collapse at the trouble in which she had got his wife, Goodrich sobbed:

"My wife is innocent. She knew nothing about the Gallaher affair until I told it to her in New York four months ago. She kept after me to give myself up, but I wouldn't."

In another statement, however, Goodrich gave a different version which conformed more closely with the confession made by his wife. She had told police she knew of the slaying even before Goodrich left Detroit. In his other statement, Goodrich said:

"I threatened to kill her too, if she gave me away. So we caught a bus to Pontiac. Then we hitchhiked to Port Huron, walking across the Canadian border over an unguarded road."

Bursting into loud lamentations after he and his wife had waived extradition in the home of General Sessions Judge Koenig, the musician insisted he had murdered only one little girl—Lillian Gallaher.

Attacks Denied
Admitting he had attacked five other girls, he insisted he had made no criminal assault on the child he confessed to slaying. To Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea of Detroit he told the following story:

"Last September 20 I saw the girl on the street in front of the library near my apartment in Detroit."

"I had seen her around the neighborhood before, and I got to talking to her and asked her to come with me and help me bring some books back to the library."

"When we got to the apartment I shut the door and she started to scream, so I hit her over the head with a hammer."

"Then I threw her on a daybed, but she was bleeding so much that I took her into the bathroom. Then I gagged her, tied her up, choked her to death and put her body in a trunk."

Treaty Sniping

The Hull-Peek fight is a long way from being over.

It was supposed that Hull had knocked out the opposition when, a few weeks ago, the President announced that Peek's office as Special Adviser on Foreign Trade would not be continued. But this did not take into account Peek's power behind the scenes. He is still President of the Export-Import Banks, and still relentless in opposing Hull's most-favored-nation policy.

Peek's latest job of hamstringing was done through the Scrugham amendment. He sat down with the scrappy Congressman from Nevada and the result was a bill to amend the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and reverse Hull's policy completely. Outstanding treaty commitments would be liquidated and no more of this type could be entered into.

Scrugham declares he has the backing of 100 members of the House.

BRUNO'S AIDES CARRY ON PLEA

TRENTON, N. J., July 5—Counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann today charged that Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh refuted one of the state's theories as to how her baby, Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnapped.

In a supplemental brief, filed with Assistant Attorney General Joseph K. Lanigan, the defense lawyers asserted Mrs. Lindbergh refuted the state theory in her testimony at the trial of Hauptmann, who was convicted of the baby's murder.

After citing a portion of Attorney General David T. Wilentz's summation to the jury in which he claimed the child was killed in the nursery before he was removed from the Lindbergh home, the brief states:

"The evidence of Mrs. Anne Lindbergh, the housewife and mother, was that nothing in the room was disturbed. The safety pin still held the covers to the mattress. This would indicate that the child had been lifted carefully from the crib and by friendly hands, as there were no bloodstains or evidence of haste anywhere."

"Thus one of the state's theories is refuted by Anne Lindbergh, its most reliable witness."

One of the main points of Hauptmann's appeal is that the state did not prove the slaying occurred during commission of a felony, namely, burglary, as charged in the indictment.

BRUNO'S AIDES CARRY ON PLEA

TRENTON, N. J., July 5.—Counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann today charged that Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh refuted one of the state's theories as to how her baby, Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnapped.

In a supplemental brief, filed with Assistant Attorney General Joseph K. Lanigan, the defense lawyers asserted Mrs. Lindbergh refuted the state theory in her testimony at the trial of Hauptmann, who was convicted of the baby's murder.

After citing a portion of Attorney General David T. Wilentz's summation to the jury in which he claimed the child was killed in the nursery before he was removed from the Lindbergh home, the brief states:

"The evidence of Mrs. Anne Lindbergh, the housewife and mother, was that nothing in the room was disturbed. The safety pin still held the covers to the mattress. This would indicate that the child had been lifted carefully from the crib and by friendly hands, as there were no bloodstains or evidence of haste anywhere."

"Thus one of the state's theories is refuted by Anne Lindbergh, its most reliable witness."

One of the main points of Hauptmann's appeal is that the state did not prove the slaying occurred during commission of a felony, namely, burglary, as charged in the indictment.

UNION ENJOYED CLASS OF 1900

An occasion long to be remembered was the fourth reunion of the class of 1900 of Circleville high school enjoyed Thursday at the beautiful home of Mrs. Ella Seal Nave in Westerville.

Twelve members of the class out of the twenty-four still living were seated for the luncheon at 1 o'clock at an attractively appointed table centered with blue and yellow garden flowers. Blue was predominant in the table decorations. Favors were blue nuts cups and place cards were small booklets with the names engraved on them by Mr. Nave. Each member of the class wrote his or her name in all the booklets.

Following the four course luncheon letters were read from the absent class members. A class book being compiled by Mrs. Milton Kellstadt, which contains a number of pictures of the class, was displayed and an account of commencement exercises which appeared in the newspaper in 1900 was read by Mrs. G. H. Adkins. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in reminiscing.

Enjoying the affair were Earl Warner of Detroit, Mrs. Myrtle Chistly Wolf, Mrs. Mayme McMahon Shaner, Mrs. Virginia C. Kellstadt, Mrs. Emma Dresbach Crites, Mrs. Nello Sapp Phillips, Mrs. Pearl James Adkins, Mrs. Cora Rader Hood, Miss Mary Wilder, Miss Florence Hoffman, and Lutz May this city, and Mrs. Nave.

Columbus is Preparing For Elks' Convention

COLUMBUS, July 5.—This city will blaze from end to end with entertainment and shows for the week that the national convention of Elks is here July 14-18. Robert T. Oestreicher, chairman of the convention committee, and past exalted ruler of the Columbus Elks, said today. He revealed that a contract has been closed with the Rubin and Cherry Carnival for a week in Columbus covering convention dates.

The carnival will be staged along the river boulevard in front of the new State Office building and a portion of the receipts will go to the convention expense fund. Efforts are being made to find other lots centrally located each of which will blossom out in shows. Besides these shows the committee has baseball, wrestling, boxing, yacht racing, motor boat racing, dog races, trap shooting, golf, grand ball, concerts, harness racing and many other events in store for the visitors who will number upwards of 50,000.

The climax of the convention, from the spectacular standpoint, will arrive on Thursday when the parade will be given. Scores of Elks lodges in Ohio will be represented by a total of thousands of COLUMBUS, July 5.—This city will blaze from end to end with entertainment and shows for the week that the national convention of Elks is here July 14-18. Robert T. Oestreich, chairman of the convention committee, and past exalted ruler of the Columbus Elks, said today. He revealed that a contract has been closed with the Rubin and Cherry Carnival for a week in Columbus covering convention dates.

The carnival will be staged along the river boulevard in front of the new State Office building and a portion of the receipts will go to the convention expense fund. Efforts are being made to find other lots centrally located each of which will blossom out in shows. Besides these shows the convention has baseball, wrestling, boxing, yacht racing, motor boat racing, dog races, trap shooting, golf, grand ball, concerts, harness racing and many other events in store for the visitors who will number upwards of 50,000.

The climax of the convention, from the spectacular standpoint, will arrive on Thursday when the parade will be given. Scores of Elks lodges in Ohio will be represented by a total of thousands of marshers, and the procession will take more than three hours to pass a given point. Final plans are being made rapidly at the Elks Club, which will be headquarters for the convention. The grand lodge headquarters will be at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel, where Grand Exalted Ruler Michael Shannon, of Los Angeles, will arrive two days in advance of the start of the convention.

The Elks national convention is one of the "big three" of national conventions, others being the Shriners and the American Legion.

CLOTHES MAKE STATESMAN

IF we properly recall the prevailing roster of America's ten best-dressed men there was nowhere among their distinguished company the name of diplomat or statesman. They were gentlemen primarily of fashion who obtained from private endeavor the wherewithal to patronize the best tailors. They are quality, scornful of rather than seeking the public gaze and favor, a ruling class which rules through the magic of finance instead of statecraft.

It may be this is a significant thing, and very serious. We have only to study the records of foreign diplomatic successes to know the importance of proper attire. The young Captain Eden, who wins golden opinions everywhere and is described as one of the best-dressed men in London, was pictured during his recent visits to Germany and Russia. Alighting in Moscow, he wore a hat of heavy fur; in Germany he sometimes wore a top-hat and again a bowler or a Homburg soft hat.

He seems to be blessed with an instinct for wearing the right hat in the right place at the right time, and he must travel with an entire compartment of his train filled with hat-boxes. Captain Eden, we believe, is a scion of the ancient cadom of Warwick and it may explain why he is proper and successful.

It may be, but we are not sure of it, that Englishmen would get into the right clothes and out of the wrong ones no better than we do but for the services of a gentleman's gentleman with which we understand, every English gentleman is equipped. Always at his elbow, there is the valet who settles difficult matters of dress for his master. And if the employer is of an exotic fancy in ties or is cursed with a weakness for large, bright cheeks in his morning suits, the valet must gently nurse him into a healthy, tractable frame of mind, and send him forth into the world a perfect gentleman to the general view, even though he may conceal the soul of a costermonger within.

Most Americans are their own valets, convinced that what they don't know about proper attire is nobody's business. A valet impairs this national right. Least of all, under our political system, has he a place in the equipment of a public man. It might help him to dress properly, but it would ruin his political career.

IT'S MEAN, ALL RIGHT

ANY amateur student of meteorological matters will sooner or later come face to face with the term "mean temperature" and wonder what it means. In a hazy sort of way he will gather that it has something to do with the average temperature readings over a given period, and wonder why the weather sharks don't call it "average" and let it go at that.

Now we have been permitted to understand what it's all about. The month of June had a near-record rainfall and one of the lowest temperatures of many a spring. It was a mean spring month. Last year at about the same time some of the June days came near to breaking the high record. They were mean days too. Put two mean things together and the result can be only something mean.

Matters of science and meteorology are simple once you get the hang of them.

GOOD ADVICE

THE words of Spenser Byrne on the future of congress will send a sympathetic echo ringing about the land. "We ought to dispose of all possible legislation now," he said a day or two ago, "and give business and the country a chance to know what to figure on."

This is sound and timely advice. The presentation of the president's tax program suggests the possibility that congress may remain in session all summer. So long as congress remains in session and the country is filled with talk and fears of new taxes, interferences and inhibitions, business is certain to be restrained from advancing to recovery.

There are many heartening signs of better times, including continued industrial activity and revival of the anticipated seasonal decline to materialize. Business leaders, however, are either timid or cautious. They insist upon knowing just what lies ahead. And while congress continues in session the future is unpredictable.

Why do youngsters dislike home? Do you like a place where you never hear anything but criticism?

Just the same, it's funny that colleges with the most money to spend happen to develop the best football teams.

CHAPTER 46

VAL WONDERED what Jan would have done when he was trapped in the forest. As if he didn't know! A girl like Jan would never have hesitated an instant to make her way into the depths, over every obstacle, into the most terrific danger, until she had found her man. That was the love that a real woman could offer. Something fierce, protective, magnificent. She wasn't the sort who would only demand and take from a man. She would give.

But he must not think of Jan. Neither must he dwell on today's racking events. There in the forest he had not been quite sure. He must forget the ugly thoughts that had hurried his distraught mind. With a quick movement he set his feet abruptly on her feet and pulled his own weary body upright. "I am very hungry and tired," he said even. "I am sure you are also. When we have scrambled together something to eat, we must sleep." Before he entered the house, however, he made a careful circle of the brush about the clearing to make sure that none of the cigarettes Lia had carelessly tossed from the porch should be left smoldering there.

In the cabin, after he had built a roaring fire, he looked about the flame-lighted room and frowned impatiently. The bunks were unmade, sticky breakfast dishes still littered the table. A pile of magazines on the couch betrayed how Lia had passed the waiting hours.

"What a good dinner you must clean up this place," he said sharply. Thereafter he paid her no further attention but went on to the tiny kitchen where, before long, the coffee pot bubbled merrily; eggs beaten to a golden froth in a blue and white china bowl ready to be converted into an omelet on the skillet. A thick slice of ham shimmered and sent forth little savory gusts of delicious fragrance.

When he carried the hot plates of food into the living room, Val paused at the door, surprised to see how tidily Lia had carried out his orders. Beds were made, the hearth brushed clean, the table neatly set, the lamps lighted. He made no comment but pulled out her chair, then seated himself.

Never had food and boiling coffee tasted so good. Half way through he saw the color creeping back into Lia's pallid cheeks and felt his own spirits reviving. When he had finished their cigarettes he was again amazed to see his wife carry out the dishes without being told to do so. Not long afterward they caught their respective bunks and fell at once into exhausted sleep.

On the night of his accident Val had been nagged by his yearning for a drink until exhaustion had sent him into quick forgetfulness. But the following afternoon, when his accustomed cocktail hour drew near, he knew at last that he was in the grip of a craving that amazed and frightened him.

Not, he told himself, that he had ever been a heavy drinker. Oh sure, he had got himself plastered now and again when the ship came into port and he wanted to let off steam. But his marriage, he now admitted, he had become a moderate, consistent drinker, one who had come to depend on alcoholic stimulation at regular intervals and in gradually increasing amounts. And in that direction, he had the good sense to know, lay real danger.

For he had always prided himself that he could take his liquor or let it alone. Well, that was true. He just hadn't realized it was getting to be a habit. A habit was, easily conquered. When you understood a thing like this, you had it more than half licked from the beginning.

A long swim in the lake's bracing waters solved matters. Again after drinking ink-black coffee with his dinner he was free for a while. But, as the evening wore on, the goading desire returned to set him nervously pacing the porch. The realization grew that it was himself, and not Lia, who must prove the test problem of this stay at Paradise Lake. And hours later, staring with wide, wakeful eyes into the darkness, he resolved to leave this place on the morrow and set out for civilization once more.

Only the danger of taking Lia overboardly marked trail, with more than an even chance of losing their way in that great expanse of virgin timber, kept him from obeying this intense urge. During the following days, his lithe, bronzed body clad only in bathing trunks, he sought relief in hard swimming, in striding about the lake on strenuous hikes, in paddling the canoe with strong, sweeping strokes that sent it skimming across the water. Yet despite his exertions, at night when Lia lay in deep sleep, he sat wakeful before the smoldering fire or paced the clearing. And before long he grew to understand that it was not only the craving for liquor that tortured him almost beyond endurance.

Always, just at the edge of his consciousness, his longing for Jan lay in wait to lure him into dreams of her. Always it seemed as if he had only to permit himself to look in order to see her there, his constant companion. She swam, he swam, walked with him, wielded a paddle in the canoe. Every sunset, every patch of wild flowers, every bay branch against the stars impelled him to turn and share the joy of it with her. With golden hair flying, she ran down the trail to meet him, she sat by the fire pressed close to his side. Her low, thrilling voice came to him in the song of the brook, the sighing of the night wind through the forest.

Although at first he had exerted all his will not to recognize this beloved comrade, he began to live in this inner world and, preoccupied by his thoughts he ceased to take much notice of Lia beyond observing the ordinary courtesies. It was only on the seventh day of their stay when exercise, good food and mountain air had brought some measure of adjustment, that he realized his neglect of his wife.

Small-town scandal-mongers — both male and female — who devote their lives to listening in on party wires and spreading news about other people's business form the theme of the Columbia production "Party Wire" co-starring Jean Arthur and Victor Jory, which is scheduled to open at the Cliftona Theatre today.

Jory, a native son, returns to the village of Rockbridge, after a seven-years' absence and discovers that the telephones are buzzing as viciously as ever. His romance with Miss Arthur, who has always adored him, is seriously complicated by jealous mothers who had hoped to ensnare him for their daughters.

AT THE GRAND

A new kind of Western picture comes to the Grand theatre on Friday and Saturday, July 5 and 6. Buck Jones in "Stone of Silver Creek" It tells an exciting story of events in a frontier town, with a sharply drawn picture of the struggle between good and evil. Never before has an outdoor drama combined so many features which furnish real entertainment to a theatre audience, including as it does a story of exceptional power, acting of the highest quality, lilting songs and the breath-taking scenery of the great West. Noel Francis, Marion Shilling and Peggy Campbell are Jones' three leading ladies in this thrilling picture, and other important roles are played by such stirring actors as Nils Welch and Murgdock MacQuarrie.

AT THE CIRCLE

A modernized filled with Chinese extras who portray the parts of Chinese pirates in the Gaumont British spectacular musical screen farce, "Black Ahoy" now showing at the Circle is used to chase and fire on a stolen submarine. The Clyde Borror and Miss Nellie Borror were seriously injured when their car plunged into an open ditch on the Goosepond pike. The ditch had been left unguarded while repairs were being made at a culvert. The car dropped six feet to the bottom of the ditch.

Thirty-five friends of Miss Hazel Brown assembled at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brown, Wayne-twp. for a surprise picnic supper. The occasion was the birthday anniversary of Miss Brown.

25 YEARS AGO

Many accidents were reported over the Fourth. Roy Besser, 17, sustained a bullet wound in his left arm when firing what was supposed to have been a blank cartridge. John Duffy, 14, had the flesh on his thumb and forefinger lacerated in an explosion of powder. Arthur Miller's left hand was severely burned in a premature explosion of a fire cracker. The stock of fireworks at James M. Newland's store, Mound and Mingo-sts., ignited and there was a brilliant pyrotechnic display for a few moments, with some consequent damage to the building and the stock of merchandise.

The C. A. C. fair was a decided success, the committee reporting net receipts of $941.78.

The Pitt Stock Co. of Williamsport, which played a week's engagement in Circleville, closed the show at Washington C. H. and returned home.

A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE

BELLE BURNS GROMER

CHAPTER 46

VAL WONDERED what Jan would have done when he was trapped in the forest. As if he didn't know! A girl like Jan would never have hesitated an instant to make her way into the depths, over every obstacle, into the most terrific danger, until she had found her man. This was the love that a real woman could offer. Something fierce, protective, magnificent. She wasn't the sort who would only demand and take from a man. She would give.

But he must not think of Jan. Neither must he dwell on today's racking events. There in the forest he had not been quite sane. He must forget the ugly thoughts that had harried his distraught mind. With a quick movement he set Lia abruptly on her feet and pulled his own weary body upright. "I am very hungry and tired," he said evenly. "I am sure you are also. When we have scrambled together something to eat, we must sleep." Before he entered the house, however, he made a careful circle of the brush about the clearing to make sure that none of the cigarettes Lia had carelessly tossed from the porch should be left smoldering there.

In the cabin, after he had built a roaring fire, he looked about the flame-lighted room and frowned impatiently. The bunks were unmade, sticky breakfast dishes still littered the table. A pile of magazines on the couch betrayed how Lia had passed the waiting hours.

"While I cook dinner, you must clean up this place," he said sharply. Thereafter he paid her no further attention but went on to the tiny kitchen where, before long, the coffee pot bubbled merrily; eggs beaten to a golden froth in a blue and white china bowl stood ready to be converted into an omelet; on the skillet a thick slice of ham simmered and sent forth little savory gusts of delicious fragrance.

When he carried the hot plates of food into the living room, Val paused at the door, surprised to see how tidily Lia had carried out his orders. Beds were made, the hearth brushed clean, the table neatly set, the lamps lighted. He made no comment but pulled out her chair, then seated himself.

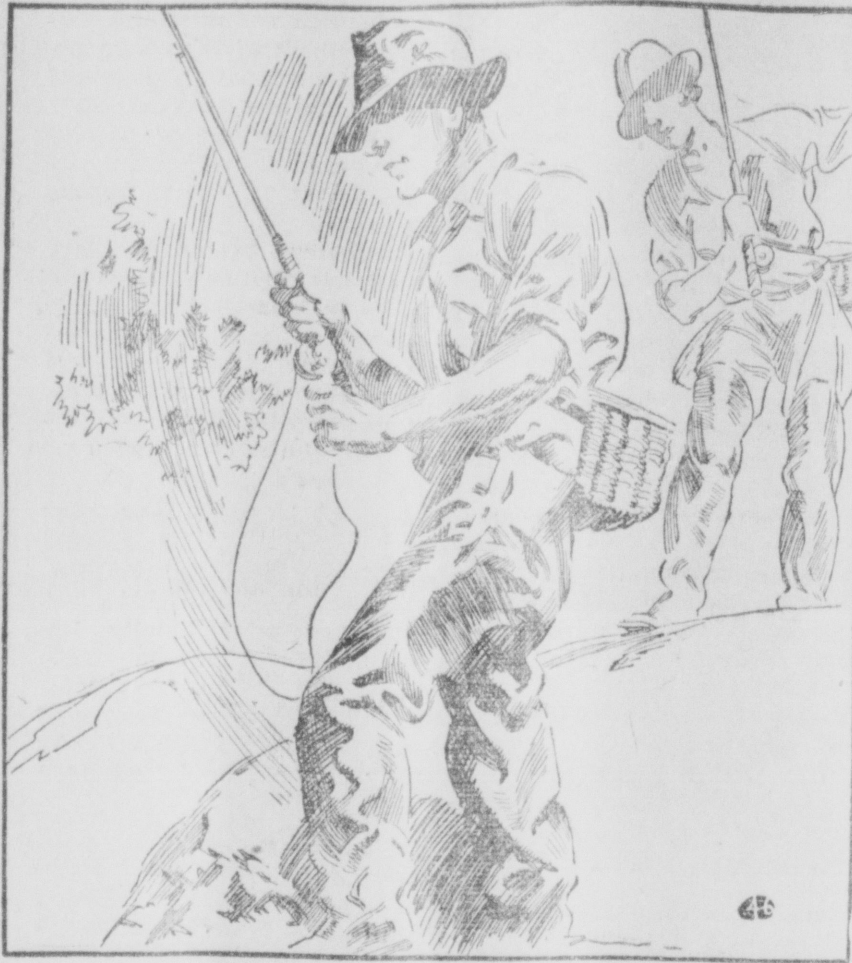

Never had food and boiling coffee tasted so good. Half way through the meal he saw the color creeping back into Lia's pallid cheeks and felt his own spirits reviving. When they had finished their cigarettes he was again amazed to see his wife carry out the dishes without being told to do so. Not long afterward they sought their respective bunks and fell at once into exhausted sleep.

On the night of his accident Val had been nagged by his yearning for a drink until exhaustion had sent him into a quiet, forgetfulness. But the following afternoon, when his accustomed cocktail hour drew near, he knew at last that he was in the grip of a craving that amazed and frightened him.

Not, he told himself, that he had ever been a heavy imbibor. Oh sure, he had got himself plastered now and again when the ship came into port and he wanted to let off steam. But since his marriage, he now admitted, he had become a more consistent drinker, one who had come to depend on alcoholic stimulation at regular intervals and in gradually increasing amounts. And in that direction, he had the good sense to know, lay real danger.

But he had always prided himself that he could take his liquor or let it alone! Well, that was true. He just hadn't realized it was getting to be a habit. A habit was, easily conquered. When you understood a thing like this, you had it more than half licked by the beginning.

A long swim in the lake's bracing waters helped matters. Again, after drinking ink-black coffee with his dinner he was free for a while. But as the evening wore on, the goading desire returned to set him nervously pacing the porch. The realization grew that it was himself, and not Lia, who was to prove the real problem of this stay at Paradise lake. And hours later, staring with wide, wakeful eyes into the darkness, he resolved to leave this place on the morrow and set out for civilization once more.

Only the danger of taking Lia over badly marked trails, with more than an even chance of losing their way in that great expanse of virgin timber, kept him from obeying this intense urge. During the following days, his little, bronzed body clad only in bathing trunks, he sought relief in hard swimming, in striding about the lake on strenuous hikes, in paddling the canoe with strong, sweeping strokes that sent it skimming across the water. Yet despite his exertions, at night when Lia lay in deep sleep, he sat wakeful before the smoldering fire or paced the clearing. And before long he grew to understand that it was not only the craving for liquor that tortured him almost beyond endurance.

Always, just at the edge of his consciousness, his longing for Jan lay in wait to lure him into dreams of her. Always it seemed as if he had only to permit himself to look in order to see her there, his constant companion. She swam beside him, walked with him, wielded a paddle in the canoe. Every sunset, every patch of wild flowers, every ray of light from the stars impelled him to turn and share the joy of it with her. With golden hair flying, she ran down the trail to meet him. She sat by the fire pressed close to his side. Her low, thrilling voice came to him in the song of the brook, the sighing of the night wind through the forest.

Although at first he had exerted all his will not to recognize this beloved comrade, he began to live in the inner world and preoccupy his thoughts he ceased to take much notice of Lia beyond observing the ordinary courtesies. It was only on the seventh day of their stay when exercise, good food and mountain air had brought some measure of adjustment, that he realized his neglect of his wife.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Small-town scandal-mongers—both male and female—who devote their lives to listening in on party wires and spreading news about other people's business form the theme of the Columbia production "Party Wire" co-starring Jean Arthur and Victor Jory, which is scheduled to open at the Cliftona Theatre today.

Jory, a native son, returns to the village of Rockbridge, after a seven-years' absence and discovers that the telephones are buzzing as viciously as ever. His romance with Miss Arthur, who has always adored him, is seriously complicated by jealous mothers who had hoped to ensnare him for their daughters.

AT THE GRAND

A new kind of Western picture comes to the Grand theatre on Friday and Saturday, July 5 and 6, Buck Jones in "Stone of Silver Creek." It tells an exciting story of events in a frontier town, with a sharply drawn picture of the struggle between good and evil. Never before has an outdoor drama combined so many features which furnish real entertainment to a theatre audience, including as it does a story of exceptional power, acting of the highest quality, lilting songs and the breath-taking scenery of the great West.

Noel Francis, Marion Shilling, and Peggy Campbell are Jones' three leading ladies in this thrilling picture, and other important roles are played by such sterling actors as Niles Welch and Murdoch MacQuarrie.

KIBITZERS are self-constituted critics, who usually sit where they can view two closed hands and dummy. Knowing the precise holdings of all four hands it is a simple matter to state how the cards, as they happen to lie, could have been played to best advantage. Sometimes even that advantage does not prevent them from voicing wrong opinions, as was the case with this hand.

Bidding went: North, 1-Heart; South, 1-Spade; North, 2-Hearts; South, 2-Spades; North, 3-No Trumps; South, 4-Clubs; North, 4-Spades.

The opening lead was the 10 of spades. Dummy won that trick and declarer discarded a low club. South so game? He led his 10 of hearts. When that held he led his last heart, won with dummy's 9, then discarded his three losing clubs on dummy's established hearts, winning 5-odd.

Of course Mr. Kibitzer had to object to such defense, stating that a return lead of a club, instead of a diamond, when East won his trump trick, would have put the contract down a trick. Let's see if that is true.

Lead one of East's club honors at the third trick. Win with South's Ace. The trick 10 of hearts and no matter how opponents play, run off five heart tricks. Upon the last three heart tricks have South discard his only diamond and two low clubs, leaving him two losing clubs, which latter must be surrendered to opponents. South will make 4-odd, instead of 5-odd, that is the only difference which the choice of defensive tactics can make. No return lead of East should defeat the game contract.

AN OLD ROMAN ROAD

Substance in Stomach Regulates Its Workings

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE TRIED to show yesterday that there is no fundamental difference in the functioning of the digestive system in the summer. It can meet all requirements by its natural powers of adjustment.

How delicate the mechanism that forms those adjustments is known to all students of physiology. We are finding new evidence of the working of that mechanism all the time. Just a few weeks ago, the scientific notes in the new newspaper called attention to the discovery emanating from the laboratory of physiology at Northwestern university. Professor A. C. Ivy had isolated a substance secreted by the upper part of the intestine which regulates, under certain circumstances, the movements of the stomach. It has been named "enterogastrone".

The way it works appears to be as follows: It has long been known that fat in the food, or fatty foods, leave the stomach much more slowly than other foods. This is not a property of the fat alone. What happens is that when fat enters the stomach a small portion is thrown into the intestine just as rapidly as any other food. But when this fat comes into contact with the membrane of the upper intestine, it stimulates this sensitive tissue to the formation of enterogastrone, which is absorbed by the blood and acts through the blood on the stomach muscles, reducing its activity.

Confidence Affirmed

That such delicate mechanisms exist should give us great confidence in our inner workings.

To return to the subject of summer diets, there used to be an old theory that meat and all proteins had a "specific dynamic action," and increased heat beyond its actual caloric value. That is the basis for the warnings so often issued that meat consumption should be reduced in the summer. I am unable to find any reference to this "specific dynamic" property of protein in the latest editions of scientific treatises on nutrition, but nevertheless we instinctively cut down our meat eating in the summer, and there must be a good reason for it. At least, so I think, for I have a profound respect for the body's instincts.

The body's instincts triumphed over all the scientific advice about such summer delicacies as ice cream and lemonade. The scientific bigwigs in the early days of the invention of ice cream thought it very dangerous. It was too cold and too sweet and all manner of other things, according to them. But bodily instincts found it very palatable and noticed none of the bad effects predicted, and stuck to it. Now science has come over to their side and declares ice cream a "perfect summer dish".

Editorial Of The Day

THE POLLUTION OF THE RIVER

(Washington C. H. Herald)

Although the government has spent, during the score of years last passed, many millions of dollars in the construction of locks and dams and made the Ohio—one of our greatest inland waterways—navigable the year round, save only when ice halts traffic, no provision has been made to prevent the pollution of the water. Not only, it is claimed, are the acids and chemicals dumped into the river destructive of the fish but they are likewise destructive of steamboats, barges and other craft now operated on the river.

From Cincinnati to Pittsburgh there are hundreds of great manufacturing plants most of them, iron and steel mills and furnaces. A vast amount of acid and chemicals is used in extracting the iron and other metals from the ore and these chemicals, plus the substance in the ore, other than the valuable metals, dumped into the river is what is proving so destructive to the fish and to property of men who seek to use the river as a great highway.

The only remedy, it seems, is the construction of adequate sewage disposal plants either at government expense or at the expense of the manufacturers otherwise the scores of millions already spent to make the river navigable will have been wasted.

Seasonable Fruit Preserving and Other Topics in Mrs. Geo. O. Thurn's Letter Discussed This Week

Home Made Preserves Always Welcomed on Family or Guest Table. Questions Answered From Cooking School Requests.

Dear Friends in Circleville, O:

I wish I might poke my head into every one of your kitchens this month and next and ask: "How is the preserving coming along?" For I have a phobia about encouraging housekeepers to do a little "putting up" as the fruit season comes along. Even the housekeepers who live in small apartments. For small glasses of jam, marmalade and jelly, put up with your own hands, are more popular as breakfast favorites, or as gifts, than almost any other thing to be made at home.

Some one asked me not long ago for the recipe for Sun Kissed Strawberries. Here it is, a recipe from Louisiana:

Sun Kissed Strawberries

Select large, sound, ripe berries and wash before hulling. Being careful not to bruise the berries. Use three fourths pound of sugar to every pound of berries. Put sugar in a preserving kettle, dissolve and let heat, but not to boiling. Add the berries and bring to boiling and let boil for five minutes. Remove from the fire and spread on shallow platters and place in hot sunshine until the syrup thickens. As a rule this takes from two to three days time, varying according to the heat of the sun and how long it stays up. Between days keep the platters indoors in a clean, dry place. When the syrup has reached the desired thickness (not enough to become jellied) pack in freshly sterilized (but cold) jars and cover with hot paraffin.

Rhubarb and Fig Jam

Five pounds rhubarb; one pound cut up dried figs; four pounds sugar. Wash the figs, soak two hours, then cut in fine pieces, by putting through the meat grinder. Cut the rhubarb in small pieces. Add the figs and sugar to the water in which the figs have soaked. Boil for one hour. Or until very thick. Put into sterilized jars, seal, or cover with paraffin.

Orange and Rhubarb Marmalade

Three pounds sliced rhubarb; three pounds sliced oranges; two lemons; three pounds sugar.

Chop up the peel of the orange and lemon. Add the peel to the finely chopped fruit and sugar and let stand overnight. Put into a large enameled saucepan and cook slowly to a jelly. Four into glasses and seal with paraffin.

Cherry Preserves

Allow one pound of sugar for each pound of seeded cherries, and three tablespoons of currant juice. Put a layer of cherries in the bottom of the enameled preserving kettle, then a layer of sugar, and repeat until the kettle is three fourths full. Pour in currant juice to every pound of fruit and sugar. Put in kettle over low heat, let boil shaking the kettle to keep the cherries from sticking. Remove the scum as it rises. Cook until the syrup is very thick. Pour into sterilized glass jars and when cool seal tightly.

Iron Skillet

One woman at the Cooking School asked: "What makes an iron skillet turn things black that are fried in it?"

My suggestion is to thoroughly clean the skillet, first by wiping out with paper toweling, then by washing it in very hot soap suds, then by rinsing in clear, hot water. While in the suds, scour with a brush or steel wool scouring brush, rinse carefully, and wipe with a clean dish towel. An iron skillet which is carefully cleaned after each use is as clean as any other utensil and it does not come off on food.

Underweight Child

One question concerned the underweight child, "what to do about his food." First see the family doctor. The child may have bad teeth, or bad tonsils, or some other functional or organic sickness which causes him to dislike food. Or which causes his food to be improperly assimilated. If the doctor and dentist give him a clean bill of health, and say: "He needs building food," then see that he gets a quart of milk each day—whole milk if possible, the raw, certified variety. Try giving him egg malted milk, between meals; rice, spaghetti, and tapioca as luncheon dishes, cereals with every breakfast, cream soups once a day, plenty of butter on his bread, and have it real butter, not a substitute. Make cocoa for his breakfast, and if he cannot take the egg drinks give him iced cocoa with cream or rich milk between meals. Milk drinks sweetened with a little vanilla are often more appreciated by a child who is fussy about his food.

Another Child

"What would you feed a child that won't eat any vegetables, and wants everything sweet?" Try to reason with him nicely before meal time, explaining that vegetables give him a straight, fine body, good bones, energy to run and play, a chance to be on the football team when he grows up; and that too many sweets and too much sweet food, will make him ill, and keep him from these good times. Then present his vegetables attractively; his own nice little dishes; the food well seasoned and served in small portions. Promise as a treat after the vegetables that there will be a pudding or some other simple sweet. If he still refuses then you must assert your position by saying there will be no sweets or no food at all, "until you can eat vegetables with the rest of the family." He may go on a hunger strike, but it will last only a day at most. And such asserting of authority has to be done or he remains not only the badly nourished child, but his triumph over parental guidance will make him an insufferable child with whom to live.

MRS. GEORGE O. THURN.

A BASIC RECIPE FOR SHORTCAKE

Make This Tender Biscuit Dough For All Kinds of Berry Shortcake.

With the berry season at hand, shortcakes demand a place in the menu. This basic recipe is the delicious, old fashioned rule: Two cups flour; two teaspoons baking powder; one teaspoon salt; two tablespoons sugar; one fourth cup shortening; two thirds cup milk.

Mix and sift the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in the shortening with a knife or rub in with the finger tips. Add milk gradually and mix to a soft dough. Roll out on a slightly floured board to one half inch thickness. Cut with a large cookie cutter. Bake in a hot oven 425 degrees F. fifteen minutes. Break apart, spread with melted butter and put the sliced and sweetened fruit or crushed berries between and on top, with a spoonful of the juice and a little whipped cream on top. Makes eight shortcakes.

Fillings: Crushed currants require a good bit of sugar; mix currants and ripe gooseberries together, add sugar; used crushed raspberries; blackberries; strawberries, stewed cherries; cherries stewed with currants and a little fresh mint leaves; crushed ripe peaches, sugared; crushed ripe peaches with crushed blackberries and sugared; sliced bananas; crushed canned apricots.

FARMER SUICIDES

NEWARK, July 5.—Lannis B. Baker, 29, a despondent farmer, took his own life with a shotgun at his home near here Thursday. He locked his wife in a room with a child before the shooting, saying he was going to kill them. They fled through a window.

Garden Club Meeting

The Kingston Garden club enjoyed a most delightful meeting and picnic at the beautiful country home of Mrs. May McCullough, north of town, Tuesday evening.

The meeting came to order at five o'clock with Mrs. McCullough presiding. The secretary, Mrs. R. E. Lightner, called the roll and the members responded with an interesting and instructive fact about flowers and gardening. The secretary read the minutes of the May and June meetings.

Mrs. McCullough gave a report of the flower show recently held in Chillicothe. Mrs. H. E. Yaple discussed "The Garden's that Endure Through the Summer." A very interesting flower contest, in which a romantic love story is told by the names of flowers, was conducted by Mrs. McCullough. Mrs. Frank L. Haynes and Miss Josephine Brundige tied in the contest and were presented glasses of lovely jelly.

The next meeting will be held on the first Tuesday in August and will be a covered dish supper at the home of Mrs. Edward Minshall.

Two new members were added to the roll, Mrs. Ida Famulener and Mrs. Katherine Spencer.

The following members and guests were present to enjoy the delicious picnic supper: Mesdames Paul McGinnis, Paul M. Niswander, D. H. Dreisbach, John Spencer, G. W. McGinnis, Ida Famulener, R. E. Lightner, Harry Metcalf, J. P. Gardner, R. H. Brundige, F. B. Mowery, Frank L. Haynes, W. S. Metcalf, W. D. Wood, S. C. Lightner, F. P. Long, H. E. Yaple, H. S. Boggs, Margaret McKenzie, Alice Riegel, R. M. Metzger, Carrie Holderman, W. R. Sunderland, C. L. Braden, R. W. Dunlap, A. U. Brundige, and Misses Josephine Brundige, Katherine Brundige, Mildred Holderman, Mary Dunlap, Janice Sunderland, Jessie Wood, Mary and Ruth McKenzie.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The Salem Woman's Christian Temperance Union met Wednesday afternoon, July 3, at the pleasant country home of Mrs. Howard Dreisbach, near Stoutsville. The meeting came to order at 2:30 with Miss Mary L. Harpster presiding, and all singing "This is My Father's World." Miss Ada B. Merriman was in charge of the devotionals, closing with prayer.

After singing "America the Beautiful," the secretary, Mrs. Lillian Hinton, read the minutes of the June meeting. During the business session it was voted to give the Boy Scouts, a picnic on the evening of Thursday, July 18. The president appointed Mesdames H. E. Yaple, Clarence Dunn, Owen Morris and Charles Dreisbach on a committee to study plans to make money and report at the August meeting. Miss Blanche Ryan, L. T. L. leader of Circleville, was present and told about her work. Mrs. Abbie Gussman, another guest, gave an interesting talk. Mrs. H. E. Yaple closed the meeting with prayer.

Besides the guests mentioned above Miss Anna Gill, of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Lucy Bressler, Mrs. Val Valentine, of Tallon union, Mrs. Lillian Roe, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Charline and Mary Ruth Dreisbach were present.

The committee served delicious homemade ice cream, cake, tea and candy to 20 members and the nice visitors.

Miss Mary Dunlap returned Sunday from a visit with friends in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schwenke, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ross and children Joan and Lonnie, of Richmond, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Miller, of Logan, were visitors at the home of Mrs. E. P. May, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Long were her guests at a 12 o'clock dinner.

Remember the Woman's Foreign Missionary society meeting to be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Mollie Pugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Beavers and children, Helen and Richard, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Riley Ireton, (Ruth Beavers), at Wilmington, Sunday.

Ruth Anne Johnson, of Chillicothe, is a guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Anna Johnson. Joe McPherson, of Columbus, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. William McPherson and Maxwell Tussing.

Miss Grace Jordan, attendant at the Pickaway-co Children's Home, was the week-end guest of her sister Mrs. Robert Stewart and family.

Miss Alice Goodman and Dr. David Goodman were visitors in Columbus, Thursday. Dr. Goodman is recovering from a tonsilectomy operation at the hands of Charles C. Mooney, of Columbus, recently.

Ralph Minser is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Howard Armstrong and family, at Bonney Leslie, Ky., this week.

Mrs. D. E. Kempton, and Mrs. Velma Barnes and family of Walnut Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Kempton and family and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Saylor, of Dayton, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ault and family enjoyed a picnic at Old Man's Cave, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Luckhart, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Delong, Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Elliott, Jane Tunnicliff and Messrs. George and Sanford Kellenberger were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kellenberger, Sunday, at a 12 o'clock dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Strausbaugh and son, Lindy, and Mrs. Ethel Jones and son, William, attended the funeral services held for John Strausbaugh at the Dunkard church, near Charleston, Saturday morning at 10:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shaw were business visitors in Circleville on Thursday afternoon.

PHILATHEAS MEET

The Philathea Sunday school class of the M. E. church met Thursday afternoon at the pleasant home of Mrs. Walter Wright, with Mrs. Katherine Quillan and Mrs. Mary R. Withgett, assistant hostesses. The meeting was called to order at 3 o'clock by the president, Mrs. Ida Jones, and all singing "Just for Today," followed by prayer offered by Mrs. Paul M. Niswander. The 51st Psalm was read responsively. After singing "America" the secretary, Mrs. Wright, read the minutes of the April and May meetings.

Mrs. Jones reported the special meeting held Saturday evening, June 8, when the officers were named as follows: President, Mrs. Jones, first vice president; Mrs. Mollie Pugh; second vice president, Mrs. Ella Pyle; secretary, Mrs. Wright, treasurer, Lavina Steele; flower committee, Mrs. Della Garrett, Mrs. W. R. Sheridan and Miss Georgia Jarrell; Ways and Means committee, Mrs. A. U. Brundige, Mrs. George Delong, Mrs. Della Garrett, Mrs. Elizabeth Ellstein, Mrs. Nettie Miller and Mrs. David Betz.

Mrs. Niswander will type the calendars. Mrs. Ella Pyle will be the teacher.

The following short program was presented: Music on Victoria Song quartet, "Speak, Lord, We Hear." Reading, "The Parable," by Mrs. Sheridan. Song on the victrola, "The Church in the Wildwood." Reading, "Breakin' Up a Match." Reading, "Easter Morning," by Carolyn May Wright.

The committee served angel food cake, with custard, coffee and mints to the following members and guests: Mrs. Della Garrett, Mrs. Fannie Goth, Mrs. Minnie Compton, Mrs. J. P. Nichols, Mrs. Charles Roby, Mrs. Elizabeth Ellstein, Mrs. Katherine Quillan, Mrs. A. U. Brundige, Miss Katherine L. Brundige, Miss Mary L. Harpster, Mrs. P. M. Casserole Cooking For Two

"What will I cook in these price-less casseroles?" Many a June bride looks at her beautiful pottery baking dishes given her by kind friends and asks herself that question.

An individual casserole is a delightful way to serve a tempting meal. If your dishes are plain, serve bright, appetizing looking foods. If they are quaint, side handed affairs in gay cheery colors, even hash would look romantic when served in them, wouldn't it?

If It's Salmon You Crave

- 3 Tbsp. butter
- 3 Tbsp. flour
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- Pepper
- 1 C. milk
- Green pepper
- 1/2 C. canned salmon, flaked
- 1/2 C. green peas, cooked
- 1/2 C. baby lima, cooked

Melt butter in saucepan, add flour, salt and pepper. When the mixture foams, gradually add milk, stirring constantly to prevent lumping. Cut pepper in strips and chop enough to make 1 tablespoonful. To the sauce add salmon, peas, lima beans and chopped pepper. Place in an earthenware dish and cook in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes, or until it is thoroughly heated. Garnish top of dish with strips of pepper and crisp toasted croutons.

Corn Custard

- 4 egg yolks
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1/2 C. Golden Biscuits, crumbled
- 2/3 C. milk
- 1/2 C. sliced okra
- 1 red pepper

Beat egg yolks thoroughly, add salt, sugar and canned corn. Add milk, okra and pepper. Cut pepper into thin strips and remove seeds before using. Pour into a buttered casserole and bake until firm. One hour at 275 degrees is sufficient. Test by inserting a knife to see if it comes out of the casserole clean, or shake the casserole gently to see if the mixture quivers in the center. The golden pudding in a copper colored casserole is tempting to say the least.

Casserole of Sea Food and Vegetables

- 4 Tbsp. butter
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. sugar
- 1/2 C. cooked vegetables
- Salt and pepper
- 1 can flaked crabmeat
- 1 can shrimp
- 1/2 C. grated cheese

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour and milk. Add vegetables such as peas, diced celery, diced carrots, and sauteed mushrooms. Season with salt and pepper. Add flaked crabmeat and cleaned shrimp. Turn into a casserole and cover top with grated cheese. Bake at about 375 degrees for 20 minutes, or until cheese browns.

Entertained Guests

Miss Marie Snyder delightfully entertained a group of her friends at a one o'clock luncheon Friday, June 28, at Duns Glenn Manor, near Chillicothe.

Following the delicious luncheon the pleasure was prolonged by the fascinating game of contract bridge.

The following guests from Kingston were present: Mrs. S. C. Lightner, Mrs. R. E. Lightner, Mrs. J. P. Gardner, Mrs. Mae McCullough, Mrs. Robert Cryder and Miss Mildred Holderman.

Miss Margaret Dolbey is the guest of friends in Washington, C. H. this week.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chester, June 23, a daughter: Born to Mr. and Mrs. John C. Miller, June 25, twins, a son and a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Quinn and two daughters, of Maryville, Tenn., arrived Friday by motor to visit her mother, Mrs. Fannie Baker. On Monday all left for a vacation at Buckeye Lake.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

What of Dope Bucket?

If you believe what prognosticators say holds true more times than it falls, then the New York Yankees and New York Giants will compete for the world's championship next fall. Both were leading their leagues by comfortable margins on July Fourth, the fatal day, according to baseball guessers. In the American association, Minneapolis would be on top.

Two United Bags

Two Columbus ball players reached the Grinx Thursday, they snatched home runs with the bases full. They were Jack Winsett and Don Hurst. The Birds won two from Toledo.

Pitts Sent to Bench

Alabama Pitts, Sing Sing graduate now with Albany in the International league, doesn't seem to be making the grade. He was playing left field and leading off for his cellar-team but he was benched early this week because he isn't hitting. In five games as a starter he hit safely only three times, two of those coming in his first appearance.

90,000 to See Stars

Everything is set for the all-star baseball game next Monday in Cleveland's municipal stadium. 90,000 are expected to be in the stands. The American leaguers have won both games played. Funds set up for indigent ball players and their families will be augmented by the profits.

Keye Athlete Loses 100-Meter Dash and Broad Jump to Peacock.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 5.—For the first time this year, Jesse Owens, the flying Ohio negro, today bore the stamp of defeat.

Eulace Peacock, another young negro from Temple university competing under the colors of the Shore A. C., Newark, N. J. put it on him, not only once but twice at the National A. A. U. track and field championships here yesterday.

The biggest surprise was Peacock's winning leap in the broad jump, an event in which Owens was believed invincible after his world record-breaker at the Big Ten games last month. But Peacock scared 26 feet 3 inches, 3/4 of an inch farther than Owens went on his best leap in three.

Trails Metcalfe

The 100-meter dash was just as bad for Owens, finding him in third place behind Peacock and Metcalfe, in that order. The time of 10.2 seconds, however, might be some consolation. It broke the world's record.

The two events were easily the high points of the meet and were widely cheered by 15,000 sun-baked fans.

Metcalfe, Marquette university club, former Olympic star, and three-time winner of the 100-meter event at N. A. A. U. games, came back in the 200-meter and established a new meet record of 21 second around one turn.

Other fine performances were turned in by Glenn Cunningham, world record holder in the mile run, who raced to an easy triumph in the 1,500 meters in 3 minutes, 52.1 seconds; Percy Beard of the New York A. C. who equaled his own world record of 14.2 in the 100-meter high hurdles; and Joe McClusky, New York A. C. who won the 5,000 meters in 15:14.1.

OILS & CHOWS ON SCHEDULE

Regular League Game Scheduled; Next Week's Games Are Announced.

If weather is permitting, the Circleville Oils and Purina Chows will tangle this evening in a recreation league contest. The game will get under way at 6:30 on the S.O.E. field.

The game scheduled between the Pickaway Dairy and Eshelman Feeds last Wednesday, which was rained out, will be played next Friday.

Next week's schedule includes the following games:

Monday—Citius Service Oils vs. Jones Specials.
Tuesday—Purina Chows vs. Eshelman Feeds.
Wednesday—Citius Service Oils vs. Circleville Oils.
Thursday—Pickaway Dairy vs. Jones Specials.
Friday—Pickaway Dairy vs. Eshelman Feeds.

CAN HE BEAT NATIONALS AGAIN?

Melvin Harder

One of the Cleveland Indians' staff, Melvin Harder was winning the all-star inter-league game last year, blanking the national leaguers and allowing but one hit in the last five innings. Games and Rufing had been hit hard. Harder probably will be the pitcher in the all-star game in Cleveland stadium, July 8.

TWO HELENS AGAIN MEET FOR HONORS

Most of Tennis Enthusiasts Pick Mrs. Moody to Defeat Miss Jacobs.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 5.—The bookmakers are right and if the other women tennis stars who have played the two California Helens are right, Mrs. Helen Willis Moody should be avenged Saturday for her default at Forest hills two years ago to Miss Helen Jacobs.

But Miss Jacobs is grimly determined to clinch that victory and wipe out her two previous defeats by Mrs. Moody at Wimbledon, and her condition of mind and body are such that she may just be able to do it.

"I have satisfactory memories of Forest hills," Miss Jacobs said today, meaning that she thinks she can still beat her old rival. "I'll try to put up a good show," was as far as tight lipped Helen Moody would go towards a prediction.

Immediately after Britian thrilled to the news that the bitter rivals were to meet for the third time in a Wimbledon final, bookmakers laid two to one on Mrs. Moody, but today they cannot get four to one.

"I think Helen Moody will win," predicted Dorothy Round, last year's champion. Katherine Stammers, the only Britian who has ever defeated Mrs. Moody, agreed, "but only just."

"Mrs. Moody seems to have found her form again, but Mrs. Jacobs game is very strong. "There is very little between them, but I choose Mrs. Moody," said Suzanne Lenglen.

OWENS TWICE DEFEATED BY TEMPLE STAR

Buckeye Athlete Loses 100-Meter Dash and Broad Jump to Peacock.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 5—For the first time this year, Jesse Owens, the flying Ohio negro, today bore the stamp of defeat.

Eulace Peacock, another young negro from Temple university competing under the colors of the Shore A. C., Newark, N. J. put it on him, not only once but twice at the National A. A. U. track and field championships here yesterday.

The biggest surprise was Peacock's winning leap in the broad jump, an event in which Owens was believed invincible after his world record-breaker at the Big Ten games last month. But Peacock scored 26 feet 3 inches, 3/4 of an inch farther than Owens went on his best leap in three.

OILS & CHOWS ON SCHEDULE

Regular League Game Scheduled; Next Week's Games Are Announced.

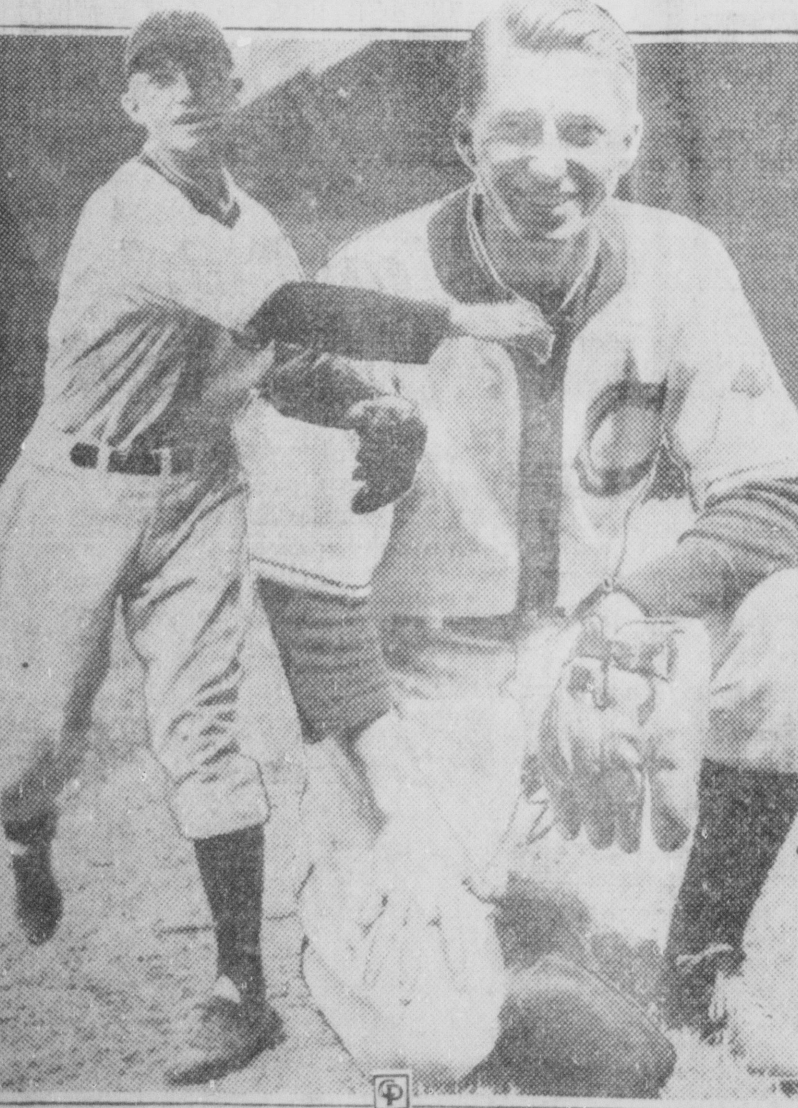

If weather is permitting, the Circleville Oils and Purina Chows will tangle this evening in a recreation league contest. The game will get under way at 6:30 on the SOElectric field.

The game scheduled between the Pickaway Dairy and Eshelman Feeds last Wednesday, which was rained out, will be played next Friday.

Next week's schedule includes the following games:

Monday—Cities Service Oils vs. Jones Specials.
Tuesday—Purina Chows vs. Eshelman Feeds.
Wednesday—Cities Service Oils vs. Circleville Oils.
Thursday—Pickaway Dairy vs. Jones Specials.

CAN HE BEAT NATIONALS AGAIN?

Melvin Harder

Ace of the Cleveland Indians' staff, Melvin Harder was winning pitcher in the all-star inter-league game last year, blanking the National leaguers and allowing but one hit in the last five innings after Gomez and Ruffing had been hit hard. Harder probably will be starting pitcher in the all-star game in Cleveland stadium, July 8.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

What of Dope Bucket?

If you believe what prognosticators say holds true more times than it fails, then the New York Yankees and New York Giants will compete for the world's championship next fall—Both were leading their leagues by comfortable margins on July Fourth, the fatal day, according to baseball guessers—in the American association, Minneapolis would be on top ***

Two Unlaid Bags

Two Columbus ball players reached the climax Thursday; they smacked home runs with the bases full—They were Jack Winsett and Don Hurst—The Birds won two from Toledo ***

Pitts Sent to Bench

Alabama Pitts, Sing Sing graduate now with Albany in the International league, doesn't seem to be making the grade—He was playing left field and leading off for his cellar-team but he was benched early this week because he isn't hitting—In five games as a starter he hit safely only three times, two of those coming in his first appearance ***

90,000 to See Stars

Everything is set for the all-star baseball game next Monday in Cleveland's municipal stadium—90,000 are expected to be in the stands—The American leaguers have won both games played—Funds set up for indigent ball players and their families will be augmented by the profits ***

BIRDS TWICE DEFEAT HENS

Play After Midnight to Win One Game From Toledo; Millers Divide.

COLUMBUS, July 5—The Columbus Red Birds didn't feel bad today because they had to play past midnight yesterday in their nocturnal game against Toledo. The Birds won the "midnight mass" by a score of 6 to 4, after taking the opener from the Mudhens, 14 to 4.

The teams were delayed an hour because of rain in getting started in the nightcap. The double win gave Columbus fifth place in the league standing, supplanting St. Paul.

The league-leading Minneapolis Millers got an even break with the Saints, Minneapolis dropped the first game, 8 to 6, but came back in style to take the nightcap, 6 to 1.

Indianapolis fell on the cellar-holding Louisville Colonels to take two wins on the holiday card. The Indians took the first game, 4 to 3, and came right back for a 7 to 4 win.

Kansas City emulated the Indians' achievement by winning both ends of its double-header against Milwaukee. The Kaws won the first, 8 to 3, and edged the Brewers, 3 to 2, in the final affair.

NEW HOLLAND AND YELLOWBUD TANGLE

Keen rivalry existing between the two towns athletically will be renewed Sunday when New Holland and Yellowbud baseball teams tangle on the New Holland lot.

The Yellowbud hurler will probably be Peg Vance with either Berkeimer or Cowans catching.

Hicks or Saunders will twirl for the New Hollanders.

JACKKNIFE WINS

PATTERN 9477

By popular demand the house lock sheds its "work-a-day" appearance for Summer and blossoms forth in a crisp, dainty (but serviceable none the less!) manner to delight the wearer and eye of the beholder! Pattern 9477 is utterly simple in design that the veriest beginner can attempt confidently. Instead of a troublesome sleeve, an epaulet effect is achieved with one simple stitch. Choose a crisp, sheer cotton like swiss or lawn with a bright design scattered over it, buy a few yards of contrasting ruffling—and Presto! you've a cool house cock that does itself proud for orch or street wear, too! Com-

STATE'S FAIR PLANS NEARLY COMPLETE NOW

Hanefeld Sees 85th Annual Fair as One of Outstanding; Dates, Aug. 26-31.

COLUMBUS, July 5. Preliminary arrangements for the 85th annual Ohio state fair have been completed, Agriculture Director Earl H. Hanefeld reported today.

"It will be one of the most outstanding events in the history of Ohio fairs," Mr. Hanefeld said. The fair will be held at the Columbus Fair grounds, Aug. 26-31.

The racing program, including early closing events and class contests, has attracted at least 100 more entries than last year, the director said. Cattle, sheep, swine, show, road machinery exhibits, and farming products displays will feature the long list of events on the program.

Improved agricultural conditions in Ohio have attracted greater interest in the fair this year than in the past few years, Mr. Hanefeld said, and the largest attendance in years is expected.

George S. York, Greenville, O., will be in charge of dairy cattle exhibits; Edward Campbell, Salem, will direct the beef cattle show; L. B. Palmer, Pataskala, sheep show; Mrs. W. J. Pentling, Canton, women's buildings; H. H. Morton, Camden, swine show; Ernest J. Riggs, Gallipolis, horticultural exhibits; William J. Calvin, Wilmington, racing; and Charles F. Michael, Bucyrus, draft horses.

Entertainments in the evenings, climaxed by fireworks, have been arranged. W. J. Ellwood, Jackson, O., the new fair manager, announced. The first day, Monday, will be free to women and children.

The Junior fair will be staged

Walk Project Not Approved

Council met in regular session Wednesday evening and considered a large number of matters, of which the most important were:

Report to bring about a pair of a number of badly needed walks through cooperation of the city officials. The project was dropped because it was started when Mr. Ryan, works division chief, authorized council that since the sidewalk project was not particularly needed the city would not fund it.

Mayor Director A. M. Justus had a number of requests from property owners for the project.

Solution Carl Ledet was instructed to look up details concerning possible application to the government for a loan to buy the Ohio Water Service Co. plant and distribution system.

Council in discussing other purchases in this manner or by a vote of the people.

Councilman Frank A. Marion, head of the safety committee, told council that the traffic light at 8th and Main streets will be removed to the Main-Mingo-Lancaster highway intersection.

Two appropriations were made in the meeting, $200 being taken from the general fund to pay outstanding service department bills for sewage materials, etc., and $600 being taken from the gasoline auto license tax fund for unpaid relief bills.

Safety Director L. T. Shauer was instructed to have the roof at in conjunction with the regular fair, and the girls' and boys' sheep clubs all over the state are particularly active in preparing for the exhibitions, Mr. Hanefeld said.

Berger hospital repaired since it has been reported that the leak-off.

The project was not approved of a new boiler at Berger hospital and construction of a new fire department was discussed and referred to committee.

The report of Mayor W. B. Cady that he collected $100 in fines, received and lost during time was received.

Charles "Hack" Stevenson, S. C. artist, complained to council that water overflowed his truck garden Wednesday evening after the heavy rain. He blamed the Smith ditch. Council took no action.

Safety Director Shauer publicly thanked the Sturges-Bell Co. for furnishing gravel to make a fill at Berger hospital.

Finance Chief Ben Gaden informed council that the balance in all funds of July 3 was $12,349.42 with the general fund having $5,065.66 to its credit.

COLORED PASTOR'S WIFE IS CLAIMED

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in St. John's Baptist church, Springfield, for Mrs. B. R. Reid, wife of the pastor of the Second Baptist church here, who died Wednesday evening after an operation.

Mrs. Reid underwent the operation Monday and never rallied. Besides her husband, Mrs. Reid leaves two children, both of Springfield.

STORMSHURT

damaged and many acres of corn were covered by water.

Considerable wheat was washed away at the Jacob Scharenberg farm, and truck patches entirely covered by water. Many acres of corn on the C. E. Groce farm, west of the canal road, were under water. Culverts were clogged with bundles of wheat and other debris.

Work to Aid Drainage
Charles Mowery, county superintendent of state highways in Pickaway-co., had a crew of men at work opening drainage ditches into the canal. At one point near the Groce farm a ditch was dug across the road where a small culvert provided inadequate to carry away the water. The floodgate at the new dam under construction in the canal was opened, permitting the water to flow into the Scioto river.

Land owner who had suffered serious damage held conferences with members of board of county commissioners and Surveyor Howland Sweetman in an effort to quickly relieve the situation by emergency drainage at strategic points and also to determine the cause of the high water, which is reported to have exceeded the high point reached in 1913. Land owners are of the opinion that the canal interferes with the drainage of that area, and this belief may result in actions for resultant damage. Others are of the opinion that the dam was in no way responsible for the flood and that the losses were sustained by the enormous amount of rainfall that came in an area not properly drained.

To Study Causes
County and state officials will be held in a conference in an effort to determine all contributing causes.

Spilled Holiday
Not only did the rain damage crops but it spoiled the holiday for many persons who were planning picnics. It was found that the cleanup night interfere with the cleanup night of July plans, but the crowd was almost as big as last year.

Golf at the Pickaway County Club was stopped until late in the evening when fairways of Nos. 2, 7, 8 and 9 were inundated.

TOLL IN OHIO HOLIDAY FETE CLIMBS HIGH

At Least 13 Known Dead In Traffic and Independence Day Celebrations.

By International News Service

Celebration of the Fourth of July, anything but a safe-and-sound, took a toll of at least 13 persons and at least 22 serious injuries in fireworks, a survey by International News Service shows.

One woman was killed by fireworks, a man drowned, and four persons lost their lives in automobile accidents yesterday, the survey showed.

Theodore Haffield, 11, died in a Cincinnati hospital from a bullet wound caused by a careless celebrator's rifle, according to police.

Deaths in Rescue Effort
James King, 40-year-old transient from Fairmount, W. Va., lost his life in a vain, heroic attempt to save the life of Charles Anderson, 11, at Cleveland. According to witnesses, the Anderson boy and another youth were on a raft which was being carried out into Lake Erie by the wind.

The Anderson boy apparently became frightened and jumped into the water as King was swimming toward the raft to tow it to shore. The terrorized boy pulled King under and both drowned. Coast guards received the bodies. The second boy was rescued.

Two children, Dorothy Kling, 15, and her sister, Grace, 8, of Toledo, drowned in the Maumee river during a picnic near Fallen Timbers. A. R. Edgerton, 58, Cleveland attorney, drowned at Put-In-Bay. Two deaths by drowning were reported at Cincinnati. Thomas Rouse, 49, printer, and Willis Crawford, 15, were the victims.

Two persons were killed and three injured when a chartered bus bearing 23 young men and women from New York to a youth congress in Detroit smashed into the rear of an automobile between Cleveland and Elgin. Henry Kuczwski, 59, and his stepdaughter, Miss Thelma Kicinski, 22, both of Detroit, were killed.

Killed by Pot.
Two hours earlier, another Detroit auto, driven by Leslie Watson, 36, and containing five passengers, hit a telephone pole on the game road near Cleveland. Annis Lois Solomon, 16, was killed.

Miss Anna B. O'Brien, 18, was killed in Cleveland when the auto in which she and another young woman were riding struck a telephone pole. Charles Morgan, 87, was injured fatally at Point Pleasant when he stepped into the path of an automobile.

Throughout Ohio, where there are laws against the sale and use of fireworks, minor fires were set and many persons injured by exploding firecrackers. No arrests were reported.

many residents were forced to swim.

The National Highway near Bridgeport was inundated to such extent it was necessary for state highway patrolmen to guide motorists through the water.

Buses were pressed into service at Holloway when high water disrupted Cleveland-Wheeling passenger train service. Ballast was washed from beneath the railroad tracks.

Land Inundated
Richlandco reported $15,000 damages to roads and highways, as hundreds of acres of rich farmland was inundated.

Baltimore and Ohio railroad crews worked desperately to repair damage to bridges near Annapolis, near the Knoxville bridge.

Hundreds of head of livestock was drowned in Kansas.

Rains and consequent high water in the Northern Muskingum watershed seriously impeded work on the conservancy district dams.

Contractors said they were experiencing great difficulty in the face of swirling torrents which in many places inundated highways and wide areas of bottom lands.

STATE'S FAIR PLANS NEARLY COMPLETE NOW

Hanefeld Sees 85th Annual Fair as One of Outstanding; Dates Aug. 26-31.

COLUMBUS, July 5.—Preliminary arrangements for the 85th annual Ohio state fair have been completed, Agriculture Director Earl H. Hanefeld reported today.

"It will be one of the most outstanding events in the history of Ohio fairs," Mr. Hanefeld said. The fair will be held at the Columbus Fair grounds, Aug. 26-31.

The racing program, including early closing events and class contests, has attracted at least 100 more entries than last year, the director said. Cattle exhibitions, sheep shows, road machinery exhibits, and farming products displays will feature the long list of events on the program.

Improved agricultural conditions in Ohio have attracted greater interest in the fair this year than in the past few years, Mr. Hanefeld said, and the largest attendance in years is expected.

George S. York, Greenville, O., will be in charge of dairy cattle exhibitions; Edward Campbell, Salem, will direct the beef cattle show; L. B. Palmer, Pataskala, sheep show; Mrs. W. J. Pentius, Canton, women's buildings; H. H. Morton, Camden, swine show; Ernest J. Riggs, Gallipolis, horticultural exhibits; William J. Galvin, Wilmington, racing; and Charles F. Michael, Bucyrus, draft horses.

Entertainments in the evenings, climaxed by fireworks, have been arranged. W. J. Ellenwood, Jackson, O., the new fair manager, announced. The first day, Monday, will be free to women and children.

The Junior fair will be staged

Walk Project Not Approved

Council met in regular session Wednesday evening and transacted a large amount of more or less important business.

Hoping to bring about repair of a number of faulty sidewalks through co-operation of relief officials, the project was stopped before it was started when Mr. Ryan, works division chief, informed council that since the sidewalk properties are privately owned the FERA cannot furnish labor.

Service Director W. M. Justus had a number of requests from property owners for the project.

Solicitor Carl Leist was instructed to look up details concerning possible application to the government for money to buy the Ohio Water Service Co. plant and distribution system.

Council is discussing either purchase in this manner or by a vote of the people.

Councilman Frank A. Marion, head of the safety committee, told council that the traffic light at Scioto and Mound-sts will be removed to the Main-Mingo-Lancaster highway intersection.

Two appropriations were made in the meeting, $300 being taken from the general fund to pay outstanding service department bills for sewage materials, etc., and $600 being taken from the gasoline-auto license tax fund for unpaid relief bills.

Safety Director L. T. Shaner was instructed to have the roof at in conjunction with the regular fair, and the girls' and boys' sheep clubs all over the state are particularly active in preparing for the exhibitions, Mr. Hanefeld said.

Berger hospital repaired since it has been reported the roof is leaking.

The matters of installation of a new boiler at Memorial hall and construction of a floor at the fire department were discussed and referred to committees.

The report of Mayor W. B. Cady that he collected $115.75 in fines, licenses and fees during June was received.

Charles "Hack" Stevenson, S. Court-st, complained to council that water overflowed his truck garden Wednesday evening after the heavy rain. He blamed the Smith ditch. Council took no action.

Safety Director Shaner publicly thanked the Sturm-Dillard Co. for furnishing gravel to make a fill at Berger hospital.

Finance Chief Ben Gordon informed council that the balance in all funds of July 3 was $12,349.42 with the general fund having $5,065.66 to its credit.

COLORED PASTOR'S WIFE IS CLAIMED

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in St. John's Baptist church, Springfield, for Mrs. B. R. Reid, wife of the pastor of the Second Baptist church here, who died Wednesday evening after an operation.

Mrs. Reid underwent the operation Monday and never rallied. Besides her husband, Mrs. Reid leaves two children, both of Springfield.

STORMS HURT

damaged and many acres of corn were covered by water.

Considerable wheat was washed away at the Jacob Scharenberg farm, and truck patches entirely covered by water. Many acres of corn on the C. E. Groce farm, west of the canal road, were under water. Culverts were clogged with bundles of wheat and other debris.

Work to Aid Drainage

Charles Mowery, county superintendent of state highways in Pickaway-co, had a crew of men at work opening drainage ditches into the canal. At one point near the Groce farm a ditch was dug across the road where a small culvert proved inadequate to carry away the water. The floodgate at the new dam under construction in the canal was opened, permitting the water to flow into the Scioto river.

Land owners who had suffered serious damage held conferences with members of board of county commissioners and Surveyor Howard Sweetman in an effort to quickly relieve the situation by emergency drainage at strategic points and also to determine the cause of the high water, which is reported to have exceeded the high point reached in 1913. Land owners are of the opinion that the canal dam interferes with the drainage of that area, and this belief may result in actions for resultant damage. Others are of the opinion that the dam was in no way responsible for the flood and that the losses were sustained by the enormous amount of rainfall that came in an area not properly drained.

To Study Causes
County and state officials will be called into a conference in an effort to determine all contributing causes.

Spilled Holiday

Not only did the rain damage crops but it spoiled the holiday for many persons who were planning picnics. It was feared that the downpour might interfere with Ashville's Fourth of July plans, but the crowd was almost as big as always. Golf at the Pickaway Country club was stopped until late in the evening when fairways of Nos. 3, 7, 8 and 9 were inundated.

TOLL IN OHIO HOLIDAY FETE CLIMBS HIGH

At Least 13 Known Dead In Traffic and Independence Day Celebrations.

By International News Service

Ohio's celebration of the Fourth of July—anything but a safe-and-sane one—took a toll of at least 13 killed and at least 23 seriously injured by fireworks, a survey by International News Service showed today.

One Ohioan was killed by fireworks; seven drowned, and four persons lost their lives in auto mishaps yesterday, the survey revealed.

Robert Schaffield, 11, died in a Cincinnati hospital from a bullet wound caused by a careless celebrator's rifle, according to police.

Dies in Rescue Effort

James King, 40-year-old transient from Fairmount, W. Va., lost his life in a vain, heroic attempt to save the life of Charles Anderson, 11, at Cleveland. According to witnesses, the Anderson boy and another youth were on a raft which was being carried out into Lake Erie by the wind.

Two children, Dorothy Fling, 15, and her sister, Grace, 8, of Toledo, drowned in the Maumee river during a picnic near Fallen Timbers. A. R. Edgerton, 58, Cleveland attorney, drowned at Put-In-Bay. Two deaths by drowning were reported at Cincinnati. Thomas Rouse, 49, printer, and Willis Crawford, 15, were the victims.

Two persons were killed and three injured when a chartered bus bearing 23 young men and women from New York to a youth congress in Detroit smashed into the rear of an automobile between Cleveland and Elyria. Henry Kuczewski, 50, and his stepdaughter, Miss Theresa Kicinski, 22, both of Detroit, were killed.

Killed by Pole

Two hours earlier, another Detroit auto, driven by Leslie Watson, 36, and containing five passengers, hit a telephone pole on the same road near Cleveland. Anna Lois Solomon, 16, was killed. Miss Anna B. Odell, 18, was killed in Cleveland when the auto in which she and another young woman were riding struck a telephone pole. Charles Morgan, 87, was injured fatally at Point Pleasant when he stepped into the path of an automobile.

Throughout Ohio, where there are laws against the sale and use of fireworks, minor fires were set and many persons injured by exploding firecrackers. No arrests were reported.
